

We're now LIVE!

- Visit the NEW www.ADME.org!
- www.DMCBestPractices.org launched

Visit the NEW www.ADME.org

ADME members at the Annual Conference in San Antonio got a sneak peek at the new ADME website. Now, it's live! The new website serves three distinct audiences: prospective clients and meeting managers looking for a DMC; Destination Management professionals, and those who want information about ADME.

One new feature of the website is the membership directory is that you can search just for DMCPs – certified individual – or ADMCs – accredited companies. You can take advantage of the enhanced members directory by either purchasing a hot link for $25 or adding a paragraph for more information for just $50. Interested? Send an email to info@adme.org and we'll send you the form to purchase one or both of these member directory enhancements.

But, don't let its good looks fool you! This site is a workhorse... with all the information that had been on the website, but better organized for you to find more information easily. Take it for a spin!

Check out these pages...

- ✓ Photos from 2009 Conference
- ✓ Looking for a DMC?
- ✓ Message from our new President, Nicole Marsh, DMCP, CMP
- ✓ Go to the Member Login to download the Word version of the new Proposal Agreement and to review the almost final version of the DMC Standard Agreement for Services

www.DMCBestPractices.org Launched

ADME has introduced a new website that will feature standard DMC documents. This new website carries the ADME logo, but is not linked in any way to www.ADME.org. This website is designed to provide potential DMC clients with access to DMC Best Practices.

Included on this site are the new Code of Ethical Conduct and the Proposal Agreement. ADME members can include this URL in their correspondence with current and potential clients to validate these DMC Best Practices are widely accepted.

This website is the product of the work that the ADME Task Force has completed in the past year. As new standard DMC documents are developed, they will be posted here.